GENERAL STATEMENT

History and Location The School of Law was established at Loyola University by the Jesuits in October 1914. The first faculty was organized by the Honorable John St. Paul, then Judge of the Court of Appeal for the Parish of Orleans, and later an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana. Classes were held at night in Alumni Hall of the old College of the Immaculate Conception in downtown New Orleans. After the first year and until 1931, the School of Law was housed in Marquette Hall, on the campus of Loyola University. The day division was organized in 1925. In 1931 the School was moved to the ground floor of Bobet Hall, which was occupied until June, 1941. From September, 1941, until May, 1942, classes were held in a building on Marquette Place formerly known as "Biever Hall". Since May, 1942, classes have been held in Thomas More Hall at 6333 St. Charles Avenue.

Objectives To develop future members of the bar who, in addition to being expertly trained in legal knowledge and procedure, are possessed of a philosophy of law enabling them in the highest sense of the word to become a credit to themselves, to their profession, to their country and to their God—this is the objective of Loyola's School of Law.

Since law is concerned with man and the society made up of men, a philosophy of law has meaning in the exact degree in which it reflects a valid philosophy of man and of society. It is the contention of Loyola University's School of Law that there is only one valid philosophy of man, namely, a philosophy which considers man a creature, made by God, made for God and going back to God and that man's creation by God as a rational being is the unique source of the dignity of man, the supreme value of the individual, the sanctity of the human person, and of inalienable rights. A denial of this philosophy is tantamount to reducing man to the level of a highly developed animal and of founding the ultima ratio of law on physical force—the germinal idea of all totalitarian systems of government. The acceptance of man as a creature of God destined for life beyond the grave is the corner stone upon which Loyola builds its philosophy of law. Man, endowed as he is, with intellect and free will, is to be directed not by the physical law of lesser creatures, but the objective moral law to which he is bound in conscience to conform.

The principles defining what is morally good and morally bad in human activity are promulgated and sanctioned by the natural law as the expression in rational nature of God's design for man. In virtue of the natural law man is vested with certain rights and obligations. These rights and obligations are every man's endowment in virtue of his very nature; they are beyond the reach of men and government. It is the high purpose of human law to protect the right of each by assuring the reign of justice for all. Therefore, human law cannot be exempted from the directive influence of the natural law without in varying degree exposing the juridical process to the arbitrary will of men—this is the sole basis of a just and sound legal system. Thus human law is valid law only to the extent that it reflects directly or indirectly the dictates of the natural law.

It must be noted, however, that while in its principles the natural law is inflexible and absolute, the applications of these principles can and do vary according to the concrete circumstances of time and place. It is for this reason that Loyola's School of Law accepts without qualification the following observation of Rev. William J. Kenealy, S.J., formerly Dean of the Boston College School of Law: [from The Majesty of the Law, 5 Loyola L. Rev. 101, 114 (1950)]

The construction and maintenance of a corpus juris implementing the natural law is a perpetual and monumental task demanding the constant devotion of the best brains and the most mature scholarship of the legal profession. For the fundamental principles of the natural law, universal and immutable as the human nature from which they derive, require rational application to the constantly changing political, economic and social conditions of civil society. The application of the natural law postulates change as the circumstances of human existence change. It repudiates a naive and smug complacency in the status quo. It demands a reasoned acceptance of the good, and a rejection of the bad, in all that is new. It commands a critical search for the better. It directs an exhaustive search into all the available data of history, politics, economics, sociology, psychology, philosophy, and every other pertinent font of human knowledge. And, of primary importance, it insists that the constant search for a better corpus juris be made in the light of the origin, nature, purpose and limitations of the state; and in the knowledge of the origin, nature, dignity and destiny of man. This traditional American philosophy of law is opposed today, even within the legal profession, by the philosophies of positivism, pragmatism, realism and utilitarianism—all of which have an ideological common denominator in subjectivism, and none of which can offer an adequate reply to the destructive philosophy of totalitarianism.

The members of the faculty in the School of Law are deeply conscious of their responsibility to the student body. They are vitally aware that the profession demands very much more from a lawyer than mere legal learning. Because of this awareness the faculty wholeheartedly accepts natural law philosophy as the integrating factor in the entire law school curriculum.

Period of Study and Full-time Students. The curriculum Requirements for Degree covers a period of six semesters of resident study. Resident study here means that the student must carry not less than ten semester hours a semester and pass a minimum of nine thereof. Classes are held on Mondays through Fridays between the hours of 8:00 A.M. and 3:00 P.M.

Part-time Students. The curriculum covers a minimum of eight semesters of resident study. Resident study here means that the student must carry not less than eight semester hours a semester and pass a minimum of six thereof. All students in the evening division are part-time students. Classes are scheduled from Monday through Friday between the hours of 7:00 and 10:00 P.M.

The requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Laws is seventy-eight credit hours of work in the School of Law as outlined in this bulletin.

Approved School The School of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is approved by the American Bar Association, which approval is dependent upon meeting and maintaining certain standards as to entrance requirements, faculty, library, and curriculum. The School of Law is also registered as an approved school by the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York.

Courses of Study The tradition of the civil law is a strong influence in Louisiana. Much of the curriculum in the School of Law is planned for the Louisiana Civil Code and the Code of Civil Procedure. Nevertheless, the American case-law technique is emphasized. Basic work is offered in jurisprudence and legal theory. In recent years the faculty has made available a selection of common law courses sufficient to permit students from states other than Louisiana to study at Loyola in preparation for practice in their home states.

Law Library The Loyola Law Library, located in the law building, is a basic working tool for today's law students, as well as a repository of research materials for the scholar. Its 32,500 volumes include reports of all federal courts and of all final and most intermediate appellate courts of the fifty States, as well as reports of England and France. The complete National Reporter System and the various annotated reporters are also available, as are annotated statutes of the United States and many individual States, and publications of administrative agencies. Holdings include Shephard's citators for the entire National Reporter System, the American Digest System, leading state, federal and English digests, complete sets of most of the leading legal periodicals and indices, a balanced collection of texts and treatises in law and allied fields, and general, special and legal encyclopediae of England, France and this country. The law library is a depository of United States and State of Louisiana documents. The general University library is conveniently located near the School of Law.

The law library of Chief Justice Edward Douglass White, which was donated to the School of Law, together with gifts of numerous volumes from Branch Knox Miller, Judge Charles Parlange, Judge John St. Paul, Rev. Jerome Mullin, S.J., J.M. Lepeyre, T. J. Semmes, W. C. Staub, Edward K. Wunderlich, Charles T. Soniat, and other donors, form a part of the collection.

Research Reading Room In addition to the general law collection, a special library and reading room is dedicated to research in Civil Law. This collection contains one of the most complete groups of French authorities in the State, together with Roman, Spanish, Swiss, and other national legal literature. Other units in the Room are a valuable historical collection of editions of Louisiana codes, and an international law section enriched by having been a depository of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

The faculty and students of the School of Law wish to acknowledge with sincerest gratitude the various donations made by Miss Leonora Del Bondio to the School of Law, which made it possible to improve its facilities and equipment.

Student Organizations The Delta Theta Phi national legal fraternity, has established a chapter at the School of Law, to which law students are eligible for membership. The fraternity is devoted to the stimulation of interest in scholarship, organized legal research and writing, participation in appellate court competition and fellowship on the part of its members. It presents a scholarship key to each member in the top fifteen per centum of the senior class and the top seven per centum of the junior class.

The Phi Delta Delta international women's legal fraternity, has established a chapter at the School of Law, to which women law students are eligible for membership.

The Phi Alpha Delta national legal fraternity has established a chapter at the School of Law to which any male law student is eligible for membership. The fraternity's purpose is to serve the law student by stressing a proper blend of professional and social activity to prepare him for the practice of law, to serve the law school by supplementing the formal courses with an orientation program for first year students, lectures, interschool moot court competition and other pre-professional endeavors to fulfill its motto "Service to the Student, the Law School, and the Profession".

The St. Thomas More Law Club was established in 1935 by the students of the day division, and all law students are eligible for membership. The law club, under the patronage of the English martyr and saint, is devoted to the stimulation of interest in organized legal research on the part of its membership, and particularly in the preparation and argument of mooted cases before appellate tribunals.

The St. Ives Law Sodality is open to all Catholic students in the School of Law and administers to the spiritual welfare and needs of the members.

The Student Bar Association was organized in the Spring of 1952 and is comprised of all students enrolled in the day and evening divisions of the law school. It is governed by an Executive Council of nine members elected from the student body. Its purpose is to provide a means of closer unity among all students and to foster mutual cooperation and understanding between the law student body, the law faculty and the legal profession. The Student Bar Association of Loyola is a member of the American Law Student Association.

In the Fall of 1960 The Legal Rag was established under the auspices of the Student Bar Association. A weekly publication, it is dedicated to the reporting of law school news and providing a medium for the expression of student views.

Membership dues in the Student Bar Association is six ($6.00) dollars per annum for the full-time students and five ($5.00) dollars per annum for the part-time students which must be paid at the time of registration. Students who register only for the Spring Semester must pay one-half of the membership dues at the time of Spring registration.

Law Review The faculty and students of the School of Law publish annually the Loyola Law Review. Through this medium all upper-classmen are afforded opportunities for legal research and writing. The officers of the student board are chosen from the high-ranking students of the senior class who have previously demonstrated an interest in legal writing.

Legal Aid Program In cooperation with the Legal Aid Bureau of New Orleans upper-classmen in the School of Law are afforded the opportunity to assist in the handling of criminal and civil cases in which the Bureau is authorized to act. Students work under the supervision of the staff attorneys. The experience acquired in interviewing clients, in engaging in legal research, in conducting investigations and in drafting legal documents and pleadings is of much value as a supplement to the education of the student and beneficial to the community.

field of social science, English literature and composition, and philosophy.

Requirements Applicants for admission to the School of Law For Admission must be of good character. They must have completed their eighteenth year at the time of registration. The minimum prerequisites for admission to law school are fixed by the standards of the Association of American Law Schools and the American Bar Association. Applicants to the School of Law must meet a three-year minimum requirement; they must present satisfactory proof that they have completed "at least three-fourths of the work acceptable for a bachelor's degree after four years of study at a principal college or university in the state where the law school is located, with a scholastic average, based on all work undertaken, at least equal to the quality of work required for graduation in the institutions attended."

Every applicant must take the Law School Admission Test administered by the Educational Testing Service. Applications to take the test must be made direct to the Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey. No application will be considered unless the score obtained has been submitted.

Application An applicant for admission to the School of Law Procedure must: (1) Execute an application form obtained from the School of Law and file it together with an application fee of $10.00, payable to Loyola University with the Assistant Dean, School of Law.

(2) Have Educational Testing Service report his (her) Law School Admission Test score to the School of Law.

(3) Have a transcript sent directly to the Assistant Dean, School of Law, from each college or university attended whether credit was earned there or not. A cumulative transcript from the last school attended will not suffice.

(4) All students entering Loyola University for the first time must present a physician's certification of vaccination against smallpox within the twelve months prior to matriculation.

Applications should be submitted prior to May 1st and the file should be completed prior to June 15th. Ordinarily, applications submitted after May 1st or files completed after June 15th will be processed only on condition that space is available in the class.

Selection of applicants admitted to the School of Law is based on their academic records and law school admission test scores. Applicants selected must furnish a photograph, passport size, after registration. All transcripts and documents filed in connection with an application become the property of the University.

Students beginning the study of law will be admitted only in the Fall semester except in extraordinary circumstances.

Advanced Standing Students who have successfully pursued a portion of their law course in an approved law school (that is, a school which is a member of the Association of American Law Schools or approved by the American Bar Association), and who are able to meet the entrance requirements of this School of Law, will receive credit for work successfully pursued in such approved school. The right is reserved to refuse such credit in whole or in part. At least one year's residence is required of advanced students or they will not be eligible for a degree. Therefore, credit given for work in another law school shall not exceed two years.

A student who has attended another law school, and who has been excluded for defective scholarship, or is on scholastic probation, is not eligible for admission to this School of Law.

Examinations and Special Regulations Examinations are given at the end of each semester. The alphabetical system of grading is used.

The quality of work indicated by these grades is as follows:

Grade	Quality of Work
A.....	Very Good
B.....	Good
C.....	Satisfactory
D.....	Unsatisfactory
F.....	Failure
WF.....	Excess Absences ¹
AF.....	Absent from Examination ¹

No student will be given credit for work done in any course in which he has failed to attend at least seventy-five per cent of the scheduled classes. Excess absences will be recorded as WF. For purposes of determining student averages this will be considered as an F and as a failure to complete the course.¹ The faculty accepts no responsibility to inform a student, prior to the issuance of grades, that because of an excessive number of absences he will be unable to receive credit for the course. A student may consult with the professor conducting a course when he has reason to believe that an excessive number of absences may make it impossible for him to attend the minimum number of class hours.

Except in cases of extreme personal hardship a student will be permitted to withdraw from a scheduled course only during the first month of the semester. However, a student may withdraw from the School of Law at any time prior to the examination period. In either case, notice of withdrawal must be given in writing and it is not effective until it is received in the Office of the Dean. In either case, no grade or credit of any kind will be given for the work in the course or courses.

In the case of a student who does not voluntarily withdraw but fails to appear for an examination the following action will be taken:

(1) Upon timely petition addressed to the Faculty, the student may where he presents evidence of sufficient cause, such as, personal illness, death in his immediate family or detention out of town by a failure in transportation facilities, be permitted to take a deferred examination. The record of the student will list the courses as "Incomplete." Such examination shall normally be completed the next time the students are examined in the course.

(2) In all other cases the record will be marked "AF". This grade will be considered as an "F" in determining student averages and will indicate non-attempt of the examination for required course purposes.¹

To be eligible for graduation a student must have earned 78 credits and a minimum quality point average of 2.00 on all work attempted.

Quality credits are earned according to the following schedule:

¹Students who matriculated prior to September 1963 will be governed by the provisions of the 1962-1963 Bulletin.

Grade	Quality Credits per Credit Hour
A.....	4
B.....	3
C.....	2

Statement of Policy It is expected that a student should do satisfactory work and should therefore have a minimum average of 2.00 at all times. In the opinion of the faculty, a student who cannot achieve this minimum by the end of his first year should withdraw from the study of law. However, circumstances may occasionally prevent a capable student from earning a 2.00 average. For this reason, rather than a rule simply excluding students for failure to maintain a 2.00 average, the following rules have been adopted by the faculty.²

Exclusions A Student shall be automatically excluded from the School of Law if (a) at any time after attempting eighteen (18) semester hours of law school work his over-all average is less than 1.75; or (b) at any time after attempting four semesters, full or part time, his over-all average is less than 1.90.

Readmissions An excluded student, except in cases of unusual hardship, shall be ineligible to apply for readmission until four (4) semesters after his last enrollment; however, a student excluded after having attempted five semesters, full or part time, shall not be subject to this rule.

Other Regulations No full-time student will be permitted to schedule more than fifteen hours of law work or work in another department of the University in any semester without special permission from the Dean of the School of Law. However, a student who is registered for a full schedule in either division may audit any course he has not scheduled. He should receive permission of the faculty member offering the course.

No full-time student will be permitted to schedule less than ten hours of law work in any one semester. No part-time student will be permitted to schedule less than six hours each semester unless it is impossible for him to choose that many from the courses that are offered.

²This statement together with the exclusion and readmission provisions shall apply to all students entering the School of Law in the Fall of 1962. Students previously enrolled in the School of Law shall be governed by the provisions published in the June 1961 Bulletin of the School of Law.

A student whose work is unsatisfactory during any semester may be denied permission to carry a full schedule during the following semester.

Students registered in the School of Law will not be permitted to register for courses in any other school without special permission from the Dean of the School of Law. Permission will be granted only to upper-classmen in special instances. Even in those instances no one will be permitted to take more than three hours of work in another school while he is enrolled in the School of Law.

Fall semester grades will be announced to the students on the mid-semester date of the spring semester.

Tuition and Fees A full semester of tuition and such fees as are assessed are payable at the time of registration. This means that the obligation to pay attaches when the dean or his representative approves the schedule of subjects listed on the reverse side of the registration card executed by the student. Matriculation and late registration fees shall also be charged and are payable at the same time. Such other fees mentioned below shall also be charged.

Requests for information about these loan funds should be addressed to the Dean of Students, Loyola University, New Orleans, Louisiana 70118.

The American Bar Association's Fund for Legal Education has established a Law Student Loan Fund. Regularly enrolled students of either division who are United States citizens, have completed two semesters of law school work and are in good standing may apply for such loans at any time through the representative of the Dean of the School of Law. There are limitations upon the amount each student may borrow and the funds available are limited.

The Tuition Plan is optional and offered solely as a convenience. The minimum amount that may be handled under the Tuition Plan is $500.00 Persons who wish to take advantage of this plan should make application through the University Finance Office prior to July 1st to avoid delay during registration.

All Students will be taxed for excessive breakage or Students destruction of University property. The decision covering each case will be made by the University. Until a student's indebtedness is paid in full, no transcript of credits or record of his work will be released from the University.

Refund It is the sole duty of the individual, in case of Policy official withdrawal from the School of Law, to make formal application to the Finance Office for any refund of tuition. Refunds are determined, not according to the amount already paid by the student, but according to a percentage of the total tuition payable in the semester in which the student withdraws. Refunds are made on the following basis:

Within first week of semester.....	80%
One week to three weeks of semester.....	60%
Three weeks to five weeks of semester.....	40%

No refund after five weeks.

No adjustment in charges will be made because of a reduction in the schedule of courses after the last day for schedule changes.
